GROVER'S VIEWS

Of the Future of the Great American Republic.

AN INTERVIEW SOMEWHAT PARTISAN IN NATURE.

He Feels a Sense of Ease at Being Relieved of the Cares of Office—The President and Mrs. Cleveland Entertain General and Mrs. Harrison at the White House—Washington Notes.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Herald's Washington correspondent telegraphs that he has had a long and interesting talk with President Cleveland. The president, he says, expressed in unmistakable terms his sense of personal relief in view of his release from the cares and anxieties of office. He is not ungrateful by any means for the high honor which was conferred upon him four years ago, and declares that no man could be indifferent to such an expression of confidence on the part of American citizens.

The correspondent led the conversation to subjects bearing upon the question of the future prospects of the republic, and says the president, with the utmost frankness, said:

"I am a Democrat, with all the word implies. I am, moreover, an intense Democrat, in that I believe that the true principles of the Democratic party are essential to the well being of this country."

"During the war," he added, "the Republican party had supreme and unquestioned control of public policy. No one will question the service it rendered at that time, but the rank and file of the army was composed largely of Democrats. The generals who won renown were also many of them Democrats. While there were among the Republicans a small minority of hot heads who found fault with the Lincoln administration, and among the Democrats an equal number of fossils whose timidity was a national misfortune, the great bulk of the people, from east to west, without respect to party affiliations, were solidly patriotic and ready for any necessary amount of sacrifice for the preservation of our institutions. It is folly to claim that the war was fought by either Republicans or Democrats; it was fought by the American citizens of the north."

"But it is plain," he said with great seriousness, "that under Republican administrations there has been given a fresh and dangerous impetus to monopolies, trusts and combines. Immense fortunes have been accumulated unknown in the days of our fathers. They are a peculiarity of post-bellum times, and the control which they arbitrarily exercise over the cost of existence is a direct menace to the welfare of the workingmen and of our farmers."

The party, the president declares, which willingly encourages these evil tendencies is not worthy to be called the party of the people. As a Democrat the president believes strongly in the masses, and has a very large sympathy for the working classes. Whatever interferes with their interests interferes with the great majority of our citizens. Mr. Cleveland hesitated before discussing the race question in the south, because, as he said, it is the most delicate question now before the people. While he believes that manifest wrongs, either to whites or blacks, should not be tolerated, he has by no means lost confidence in the fair minded average public opinion of the south to do the best which the circumstances allow. They know the situation in all its bearings and to distrust their ability to deal with it is to distrust their sincerity and fairness.

The correspondent, in conclusion, says that the president "is in no wise disturbed by the fortunes of political warfare which have befallen him. He is downright good natured over his defeat. He has no fear that the Democratic policy of an adjustment of the tariff to the wants and circumstances of the people will not ultimately commend itself to the American people and there need be no fear that they will fail to attach themselves to the party which consistently and honestly offers them relief."

Account of the Indian Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—In response to a request of the senate made February 21, the secretary of the interior has sent to the senate a detailed account of the expenditures made under the items of $10,000 and $30,000 in the Indian appropriation act of 1888 for the completion and construction of work under the act providing for the allotment of lands in severalty to the Indians on various reservations. The secretary says that none of the allotments yet received have been approved or any final action taken by the department. He encloses a statement made by Commissioner Oberly showing that there has been paid to Michael C. Connelly, special agent on the Pon du Lac, Minn., reservation $972, to Alice C. Fletcher, of the Winnebago, Neb., reservation, $1,523; to James R. Howard, of the Crow, Montana, reservation, $1,728.

There has been paid to these agents $2,500 for travelling expenses, etc. There is a balance of the $10,000 fund on hand amounting to $2,424, but some accounts for the second quarter have not been received.

Of the 1,788 allotments completed, Connelly has made 505, Miss Fletcher 618 and Howard 665. From the $30,000 fund $2,200 has been advanced, of which no account has yet been received. There is on hand now a balance of $33,577 and the commissioner thinks $25,000 more will be necessary to continue the work.

They Dine Together.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Gen. and Mrs. Harrison were entertained at dinner Wednesday evening at the White House at 7:30 o'clock by President and Mrs. Cleveland. Mrs. Folsom was also present, and the affair was rendered most pleasant. Mrs. Harrison was tastefully attired in a black lace, trimmed with point lace, worn over an underdress of gold-colored satin. The president-elect and his wife arrived at the White House shortly after 7 o'clock, and it was about 9:30 when they left, the President and Mrs. Cleveland showing them through the greater part of the White House after dinner.

On account of the rain and sleet Wednesday President-elect Harrison did not venture forth from the Arlington hotel. Instead of grumbling at the storm everyone is pleased to see it. The feeling is that with such terrible bad weather this week the chances for a clear day on March 4 are increased.

The Mortons at the Arlington. WASHINGTON, March 1.—The vice president-elect and party reached here at 3:50 Wednesday afternoon, and went direct to the Arlington, where they will remain until after inauguration.

Pension Bills Signed. WASHINGTON, March 1.—The president has signed the bills pensioning Mrs. Sheridan and retiring Gen. Rosecrans.

Florida Thanks the Surgeon General. WASHINGTON, March 1.—Surgeon General Hamilton, of the marine hospital service, is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Charles A. Finley, secretary of the senate of the state of Florida, in which he writes as follows:

"By order of the legislature of the state of Florida, it is my pleasant duty to transmit to you an enrolled copy of thanks, unanimously tendered you by that body, for your untiring interest and labors in behalf of our beloved and afflicted state. Every heart in Florida, now that the epidemic is ended, is busily engaged in wreathing a garland of gratitude, which the multiplicity of years cannot fade or blench. The resolution breathes the sentiment of every man, woman and child in the state."

REPUBLICAN CLUB LEAGUE.

The Annual Convention Opens at Baltimore in Fine Style.

BALTIMORE, March 1.—Thousands of young Republicans have taken possession of this Democratic stronghold, and will hold it until Monday next. It is the annual convention of the National League of Republican clubs, and delegates are present from nearly every state and territory of the Union.

The northwest is perhaps the most sparsely represented, and this explained by the fact that the railroads controlling that region declined to make reduced rates for the gathering. The delegates already registered, however, number over three hundred, and represent fully a million of votes.

The headquarters of the various Republican clubs are gay with bunting, and four of them will keep open house during the week. The day sessions will be held in Ford's opera house and the night meetings in Concordia hall. Both are finely decorated.

The convention was called to order President James P. Foster, who congratulated the body on its numbers and appearance. The growth of the movement since the presidential election, he said, had been extraordinary, and the present convention would not only mark the permanent establishment of a new feature of National political campaigns, but would in the future make the political club a potent factor. After the appointment of the usual committees a recess was taken. On Monday the delegates, it was announced, would go to Washington in a body to attend the inauguration ceremonies.

A ROMANTIC LOVE AFFAIR.

A Duke to Wed the Lady Whose Husband He Accidentally Killed.

TAMPA, Fla., March 1.—A license has been issued by the probate judge of Hillsborough county for the marriage of George William Leveson Gower, a widower, otherwise duke of Sutherland, and Mary Caroline Blair, a widow. The duke has been here for two months, living quietly on some property which he has acquired, and devoting most of his time to hunting, shooting and fishing.

The small, comfortable house on his place has been honored since his arrival here with a handsome woman known as Mrs. Blair, who shared in his sports and who was more or less of an enigma to the natives. Was she maid, wife, widow or prospective bride?

This doubt seems to be solved by the announcement that the lady is about to become the duchess of Sutherland. Poetic as well as retributive justice is properly satisfied by this match, since Mrs. Blair is the widow dependent of the duke, whose husband he accidentally shot and killed while on a hunting expedition. The duke became a widower only last November by the sudden demise of his wife at Stafford house.

Keosauqua Queer Mission.

COLUMBUS, Ind., March 1.—A party of Indians, members of a tribe in Indian Territory, have arrived in the neighborhood, five miles south of here, on a remarkable mission. They announce that according to the traditions and records of their tribe there is an immense treasure of gold and valuables buried in that locality, and they have bent upon to secure it. They allege that the spot where the treasure is secreted is marked by a grove of beech trees, each of which is carved with figures of turtles.

Female Forger Convicted.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., March 1.—Miss Jennie Sweetland was convicted of forgery in the circuit court, Wednesday afternoon. She owned the abstract office of the county and forged the discharge of a certain mortgage given by her. She recorded the same and furnished a perfect abstract that she might borrow money on the same security.

School Teacher in Hard Lines.

PERU, Ind., March 1.—Thomas Locke, a school teacher, had trouble with his pupils, and all quit, since which time Locke has been regularly to the school, but without any pupils attending. Wednesday morning he found a notice upon the school house door warning him to resign immediately or beware of White Caps.

The Feather-Weight Champlionship.

BOSTON, March 1.—At a meeting Wednesday of the backers of Ike Weir, of Boston, and Frank Murphy, of England, feather-weights, a new match was arranged between these pugilists for the championship of the world, the fight to be to a finish with skin gloves between the 15th and 20th of March, at a place within 250 miles of Chicago for $1,000 a side.

Cattle Thieves Captured.

FORT BUFORD, Dak., March 1.—Sheriff Knight, of Deadwood, with a posse last Friday captured Jeff. Bailey and Zeb. Stewart, notorious cattle thieves, near the old Medota stage station. Both men resisted arrest, and Bailey was shot six times, but not fatally. The officers are in pursuit of other members of the same gang.

A BROKEN TIRE

Causes a Terrible Calamity on the Grand Trunk Railroad.

NINE PERSONS KILLED AND A LARGE NUMBER INJURED.

Three Cars of an Express Train Jump the Track on a High Bridge Near St. George, Ontario—Relief Freely Given By Physicians and Others—List of the Killed and Injured.

ST. GEORGE, Ont., March 1.—The St. Louis express, passing here eastbound, at about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, went through a bridge about sixty feet high just east of the station. A broken tire on one of the engine wheels caused the rails to spread and the first passenger car, a Pullman car and dining car went through the middle section of the bridge.

The Pullman car, which contained most of the passengers, was thrown clear off the bridge, turning completely over and landing right side up. Eight persons were killed and about thirty wounded persons have been taken out of the wreck.

The dining-room car contained about seven persons besides the waiters. Supper had just been announced, and in a few minutes the car would have been filled, and all must have perished.

The following is a list of killed: George Teggett, of Mitchell; William Wem, of London; Dr. Swan and A. W. Francis, of Woodstock; Mr. McLean, of the firm of McLean & Beecher, of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. Bains, of Hamilton, and Capt. Moore, of Brantford, both of the Salvation Army; Mr. Peers, of Woodstock.

The following are more or less severely wounded:

Thomas L. Doubtney, temperance lecturer; Mrs. Jennings and May Jennings, of Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Buddin, of Dorchester; Mrs. Higgins, of Toronto; Mrs. McLeod, of Ingersoll; Miss D. Haffee, of Pontiac, Mich.; J. Hyslop, of Goderich; Dan. Peacock, R. W. Knight, of Woodstock; J. McKinley, of Detroit; F. Hancock, of London; George Forbes, of New York; J. R. Marshall and Mrs. J. R. Marshall, of Regia; John H. Wilson, colored; Mrs. Evans, of Hamilton; George Margetts, dining car conductor, of Niagara; Robert Hilton, of St. Catharines; Mr. McLaughlin, of London; Conductor Revel, D. W. Kain, of Woodstock; William Bennett, of Sanilac, Mich.; Dr. H. Lequesne, of Cleveland, O.; A. W. Francis, of Woodstock; Mrs. A. S. Kendall, of Detroit.

St. George, near where the disaster occurred, is on the Great Western branch of the Grand Trunk railroad. The accident was witnessed by some of the towns people. An alarm of fire was given immediately and in a few minutes the streets were the scene of the wildest excitement. Merchants and tradesmen were on their way to supper, but they left the evening meal untouched and hurried toward the scene of the wreck.

Every available conveyance was hurried to the bridge, and as the dead and wounded were taken out of the debris, they were conveyed to hotels, private residences, Mechanics' Institute hall and the station house. A noble array of heroic women turned to minister to the wounded and dying. All the doctors were soon on hand and attended without delay to the poor mortals who groined and cried for help.

An auxiliary train soon arrived from Hamilton and another from London; a special came from Woodstock, a sister town that has suffered much more heavily than any other, bringing a large number of people.

Doctors came from Paris, Brantford, Hamilton, Woodstock and London, and for a time the hands of all were full.

Engineer Brown remained at his post and passed over in safety, while the fireman jumped, and was so severely injured that he died.

The coroner's inquest is in progress. The evidence goes to show that the disaster was purely accidental and could not have been prevented. William Blackwell was driver, having taken charge of the train at London. The engine had been examined by the driver at Paris. The tire of the driving wheel was found on the opposite side of the track in an adjoining field. It had broken near the station, thirty or forty yards from the bridge, and evidently something else had broken, as the sign and hump of the station building were knocked down.

More Deaths May Be Expected.

DETROIT, Mich., March 1.—A special to the News from Hamilton, Ont., says: The wounded by the St. George accident are doing as well as can be expected, though one or two additional deaths are expected. On the train were Mr. and Mrs. Sendall, of Detroit, on their wedding trip. At the time of the accident Mr. Sendall was in the smoking car, and his wife in the passenger coach. When the shock occurred Mr. Sendall was thrown down, but not severely injured. His bride was in the coach which fell over the side of the bridge, and is seriously hurt. She has a scalp wound and is injured internally. Doubtney, the temperance lecturer, had his leg broken. The correct number of killed is nine; of wounded there are about thirty.

Another Wreck in Canada.

MONTREAL, March 1.—Reports have been received of a collision between a freight and a passenger train Wednesday morning, on the southeastern branch of the Canadian Pacific road, near Sweetsburg. The engine, baggage car and two passenger coaches were wrecked. It is said the engine and one brakeman of the freight train were killed, and that one of the passenger train hands is also fatally injured.

A Boy Desperado.

ST. LOUIS, March 1.—Jimmie Maule, a ten-year-old East St. Louis boy, would not obey his teacher, and, as she advanced toward him to enforce the discipline, he drew from his pocket a 22-caliber revolver and threatened to shoot her or any of the children who interfered. The pupils were terribly frightened, and a panic would have occurred with loss of life had not Miss Gilham rushed quickly up to the boy and taken the revolver from him. Every chamber was loaded.

TYPHOID FEVER.

Cold Baths Now Regarded as Almost a Sure Cure.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Not since Pasteur started the medical world with his theories regarding the cure of hydrophobia has any event created so much discussion among the medical fraternity of this city, as the article just published by Dr. Simon Baruch, the attending physician of the Manhattan general hospital, in which he demonstrates apparently with conclusiveness that cold baths may be regarded as almost a sure cure for typhoid fever.

The idea is not a new one abroad, having been quietly practiced for some time in the German military hospitals, but the array of facts and figures which Dr. Baruch brings to the support of his position is calculated to arouse general interest among physicians throughout this country and Canada. The startling, and it might be said appalling, mortality that attends this disease, the average ranging from 50 to 60 per cent., is generally recognized, but in elaborate statistical tables which have been secured by the author it is shown that in a total of 19,000 cases the mortality under the cold water system of treatment was reduced to 7 per cent. There was a conference of prominent physicians in this city last night to discuss the article, and it was agreed that the remarkable results which had been attained demanded the most earnest consideration and attention of the profession.

EXCITEMENT IN IDAHO

Over a Decision of Secretary Vilas—An Entire Town Jumped.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., March 1.—Great excitement exists at Wallace, Idaho, over a decision of the secretary of the interior in the case of Allen V. Morrell, involving the validity of land located with Sioux half-breed scrip. Wallace was located with this scrip, and a few minutes after the news was received at Wallace of the decision the entire town was jumped.

The Carter house, the leading hotel, was the first property seized. A meeting was held, and a committee appointed to investigate the matter visited the United States land office in Coeur D'Alene county and found the town had been located with scrip that had been cancelled. It was agreed that the parties should retain lots with buildings on them, but no one should have more than four lots. Many persons thought to be very rich are beggars, while poor people have jumped into wealth.

Impressive and Affecting Scene.

PLYMOUTH, Pa., March 1.—The funeral of the victims of Monday's disaster at the squib factory took place Wednesday afternoon. Twenty clergymen joined in the services, which were most impressive and affecting. Upon the conclusion the remains were conveyed in nine hearse, followed by an immense throng, to Shawnee cemetery, where the bodies were laid side by side.

A Sheriff Murdered.

WINONA, Mo., March 1.—At Low Wass, a Shannon county, a man named Thompson was wanted for forgery and Sheriff Turkey, of Carter county, attempted to arrest him. Thompson shot the sheriff four times, killing him instantly. Then the deputy came up and Thompson wounded him. A posse has gone in pursuit.

Out $14,000 For a Leg.

ROCHESTER, Ind., March 1.—In the Fulton circuit court Wednesday Adam Shoner was given a verdict of $14,000 against the Pennsylvania company, for the loss of a leg. The injury was sustained by being struck by a train at Plymouth in December, 1887.

Smallpox in Canada.

TORONTO, Ont., March 1.—Four deaths have occurred in Southward township from smallpox, and fully a dozen cases are reported from that place. The health authorities have taken every measure possible to keep the disease from spreading.

Accident in a Mine.

DETROIT, Mich., March 1.—A special to the News from Marquette, Mich., says: By a premature explosion in the Norway mine, Albin Hovey lost both arms and Edward Rudder both eyes and had his face torn. Both will die.

LEGISLATURES.

Ohio.

In the senate a conference was ordered on the army appropriation bill. The agricultural bill was agreed to and a bill passed to amend the seal fisheries law. Hawley's resolution was passed for printing the inaugural addresses of all the presidents. Bills were reported for the admission of Idaho and Wyoming. The conference report on the senate bill to amend the interstate commerce law was considered until 5:50 p. m., when the senate adjourned.

In the house several bills were passed under the special order. The Indian appropriation bill was considered and passed. The conference report on the district appropriation bill was submitted, and at 5:30 the house adjourned.

Indiana.

Members of the house came to blows during the discussion of the pension question. A bill providing for life inspectors in certain cities was passed.

In the senate, the bill taking fees from the supreme court reporter, and raising his salary $4,000, was discussed and engrossed. A bill providing for a board of prison works in Indianapolis was also engrossed.

Stealing Canadian Timber.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 1.—The Canadian government has taken steps to prevent the people of Dakota from crossing the boundary line and cutting and hauling timber from the Dominion side. Mounted police will patrol the entire border. Already an enormous amount of timber has been taken by the Dakota settlers.

Ives and Stayner.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Four new indictments have been ordered against Ives and Stayner, two for grand larceny and two for fraudulent issue of stock. The number of indictments against the now is eight, four of which are for grand larceny, three for fraudulent issue of stock and one for grand larceny.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSER & MCCARTHY,
Proprietors.

FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 1, 1889.

WHAT'S become of the Samoa trouble? Was all the recent fuss kicked up by that fellow Klein, the New York World correspondent, just to advertise his paper?

A HARNESS factory is talked of by some of our citizens. They believe such an enterprise would prove more profitable than any other that has been mentioned.

SOME of the members of that dignified (7) body of law-makers, the Indiana Legislature, amuse themselves occasionally by calling each other "infamous liars." That might do over at Indianapolis, but it would prove dangerous amusement at Frankfort.

In 1887 the farmers of Robertson County grew about half as much tobacco as they did in 1886, but the '87 crop brought them, all told, as much as the '86 crop. Growers will find that it pays better to produce less and make what they do raise as fine as split silk to use Colonel W. W. Baldwin's language. Let them try it.

MR. BLAINE, the special defender of Trusts, will take charge of the affairs of the Government next Monday, in connection with his friend General Harrison. Fortunately for the people, State Legislatures and courts can keep these "unlawful combinations" within bounds even if they are "private affairs," as Mr. Blaine once asserted.

THE people of Kentucky elected Mr. Hewitt State Auditor and they have a right to know just how he has attended to the affairs of the office. His own testimony at the recent trial of the case against some of Tate's bondsmen—published elsewhere—shows him up in a very bad light and that he has been grossly negligent in the discharge of his official duties.

THE charge is made that the warehousemen had agents at the recent tobacco convention at Lexington doing all they could to persuade the growers to go ahead and put in a big crop this year. Farmers will rue it if they listen to such talk. A big crop is a good thing for the warehousemen, as they get so much for every hoghead they handle, but it will prove disastrous, we believe, to the growers. Another crop this year such as was raised last will knock the bottom clean out of the market. That's just what it will do, and farmers will find it out, perhaps when too late.

DURING the recent Samoan trouble Republican papers in their blustering and blowing were especially severe in criticising Mr. Bayard, Secretary of State. According to these journals he was a weak man, had no policy, was totally lacking in courage, and was sitting still and letting other nations insult us every day. He may have merited some of this censure, but we believe he was actuated by the best motives, and had the welfare of the country at heart. An exchange says: "Mr. Bayard believes the American people have a higher and nobler destiny than to swagger about among the nations of the earth daring somebody to knock a chip off their shoulder. He thinks it is their mission to take the lead among nations in substituting pacific methods for settling international disputes."

But Mr. Bayard will soon step down and out, and we'll wait and see how Mr. Blaine will run things.

Kentucky's Future.

"There is every indication," says the Louisville Times, "that Kentucky is just entering an era of unparalleled prosperity. There is no boom; there is but little noise; there is but little speculation; but the time has come when the old Commonwealth is to be developed. Railroads are projected in all quarters, and the day is not far distant when Kentucky will be as much of a grid-iron as Illinois. Thanks to our splendid old Governor the day of speculative character is over in this State, and the time has come when a charter authorizing the construction of a road means its construction."

"Situate in the temperate zone at the geographical locality that gives us the finest climate in this hemisphere, with a soil surpassing that of any other State, the day must soon come when Kentucky will be one of the richest of the brotherhood of States."

"In the matter of timber, especially hard woods, our forests are the finest in the Union. The giant oak, the stalwart hickory, the graceful elm, the superb walnut, the royal ash are found nowhere in such magnificence as in Kentucky, and all must yield tribute to this utilitarian age. What is true of our hard woods applies to our soil and our minerals. Nobody and nothing can check us. We are going to develop the State in a conservative and an effectual way."

THE THUNDERER

Apologizes for Publishing the Parnell Forged Letters.

IT IS CLAIMED THAT THE PAPER WAS IMPOSED UPON.

Queen Victoria's Wrath Aroused by the Marriage of Prince Alexander—Lord Sackville's Probable Successor Not a Man for the Position—Various Other Foreign News Notes.

LONDON, March 1.—The Times, Wednesday, in its leading editorial, quoted in full the apology tendered by Attorney General Webster, before the Parnell commission, for the publication of the forged letters, and continued:

"We desire to indorse as appropriate every word of the foregoing statement. It is our wish, as it is our duty, to do so. Moreover, Mr. Parnell having in the witness box stated that the letters are forgeries, we accept in every respect the truth of that statement. In these circumstances we deem it right to express our regret most fully and sincerely at having been induced to publish the letters as Mr. Parnell's, or to use them in evidence against him. This expression of regret includes also the letters falsely attributed to Mr. Egan, Mr. Davitt and Mr. O'Kelly."

"It is scarcely fitting now to enter into the circumstances under which we received and published them. We are bound, however, to point out that Pigott was not the person with whom we communicated. Moreover, we must add that we firmly believed that the letters were genuine until the disclosures made by Pigott on cross-examination. It must be evident to all reasonable persons that if conspiracy existed, the Times was victimized by and not a party to it. Errors, in judgment, may have been committed, and for them the penalty must be paid. It must be clearly understood that what we have done is altogether upon our own motion and our own responsibility and in the public interest alone. This withdrawal, of course, refers exclusively to the letters obtained from Pigott."

Queen Victoria Hoping Mail.

LONDON, March 1.—The state of mind of Queen Victoria at the announcement of the marriage of Prince Alexander, of Battenberg, to Miss. Loissoulger, an actress, a being who has actually made her living on the operatic stage, may be imagined. As he is beyond that worthy lady's just vengeance the royal wrath falls vicariously upon his brother, Prince Henry, a son-in-law of her majesty, who, unfortunately for him, is near at hand and must endure the snubs and badgerings as best he may.

The fall in life is to be supposed as immense, although Prince Alexander has made no sign that he regards it otherwise than philosophically. Not many years ago he really occupied some prominence in public affairs and his marriage then would have been of real consequence to contemporary Europe. Since his exit from Bulgaria he has led a life of royal pauperdom and it is safe to say that so far as regards character the descent is on the side of the lady. But this is not the way it is looked at here, and, although some revolutionary Englishmen are delighted at the affair, the court and those who form their opinions after its pattern are horrified at the mediocrity.

From good authority it is all but certain that when Alexander was first suspected of contemplating the rash step, an imperative remonstrance was sent to him by the queen. Contrary to all expectation to her deep wrath and mortification, Alexander did not waver at the royal displeasure, nor accept the advice said to have been actually sent to him, that it would be more dignified for him to imitate the example of Crown Prince Rudolph, than to plunge his royal aunt-in-law into such unexampled disgrace.

Prince Alexander replied that there was a remedy that could be applied, and if the mental anguish at his prospective nuptials was so alarming the threatened cause thereof could be removed by the payment to him of a good round sum, his princely funds being very low and his creditors growing unreasonable.

The funds, of course, were not forthcoming, so the perpetrator of this latest outrage upon the royal dignity is to be utterly ignored henceforth, and his poor brother Henry's future will be anything but an enviable one. There has been no change in the solar system so far in consequence of the prince's fatal step, but her majesty doubtless sighs for the good old times when a sojourn in the tower would have prevented such a step.

Sir Julian Pauncefote.

New York, March 1.—A special to the World from London says: Sir Julian Pauncefote, who, it is understood, is likely to be Lord Sackville's successor at Washington, will be one more example of the kicking-up stairs principle to which so many of our public men owe peerages. As a ponderous colonial judge, he was lucky enough to get a footing in the colonial offices as legal assistant.

Secretary Sir Robert Herbert, however, found his laboriously slow colleague such a hindrance to the transaction of business that he shunted him off to be the legal adviser at the foreign office, where in a difficulty of conciliating the rival claims to the vacancy caused by the death of Lord Tenterden in 1882, he secured the under-secretaryship of state over the heads of his more capable seniors in office.

He has never been able to cope with the pressure of business in that important position, and he has begged to be promoted to higher employment. This is to be procured for him at the expense of half a dozen trained diplomatists, who have been looking for advancement to the vacant post. There is a good deal of bitterness in the minds of these gentlemen, in consequence of the intrusion of another outsider into the upper ranks of the service. Sir Julian Pauncefote is a good-natured, vain and pompous bit of average mediocrity, and hardly up to the mark of what a British minister at Washington ought to be.

J. E. St. Clair, who was the first white male child born where Columbus is now located, died suddenly Wednesday night. He had been in feeble health for some months. His age was seventy-three.

Governor Hovey, of Indiana, has refused to issue a commission to Judge Niblack, recently elected a member of the supreme court commission, on the ground that the bill creating the commission is unconstitutional.

THE LIMESTONE.

Annual Statement of the Receipts and Expenditures the Past Year.

A Splendid Showing for the New Building Association—Number of Shares.

TATE'S SHORTAGE.

Startling Disclosures Concerning the Same at the Recent Trial
at Frankfort.

"Culpable Carelessness" on Part of Auditor Hewitt in Transacting Official Business.

The Frankfort correspondent of the Covington Commonwealth says: "• • •

The defaults in the office of the Treasurer have been known to the public since that eventful day during the session of the Legislature of 1887-88 when Governor Buckner was constrained to make known, officially, the fact that James W.
Tate, the Treasurer of the State of Kentucky, the idol of his party, his friends and the public, was a defaulter and a fugitive from justice.

"What Governor Buckner officially told the Legislature, had been known for years to Fayette Hewitt. There is no escaping that conclusion after reading the stenographic report of his testimony in the case of the Commonwealth vs. James W. Tate and his sureties.

"A State official said to me this morning:

"These people who have been upholding Fayette Hewitt and his friends have not the slightest idea of the volcano which is under their feet and ready to burst. But the fact is they dare not stop to think; they have the State of Kentucky by the throat, and it is either death to Kentucky or death to them. If they can procure a new lease of life by any means, fair or foul, they will do it and let Kentucky go bankrupt; but their death knell has rung.
Their programme is to run for Auditor an official in the Auditor's office, and Hewitt expects to dictate the nomination, and they are blind enough and reckless enough to think the state can be put through. But go and see for yourself the record of Hewitt's testimony in the Circuit Court. It will give you what he has done, in his own words, and will show how utterly reckless, incompetent and careless he has been. That he knew of Tate's default years ago is beyond question. His testimony shows his culpable carelessness—a carelessness which can not be explained on any other ground than that of having been a willing tool or worse of Dick Tate. Of my own knowledge, I know of a speculation in which he and Tate were concerned. It is only one instance, but it was the purchase of five hundred barrels of whisky at one time, by Tate and Hewitt, on their joint account. Now, take this five hundred barrels of whisky, and there were more instances than that one, and then read Hewitt's testimony as to now, when he made the annual settlement in December, 1881, he allowed a discrepancy of over $10,000 to creep in, and draw your own conclusions.

"The next thing to do was to get a sight at the report of the stenographer,
and it proved to be mighty interesting reading. • • • Judge Montfort tried the case, and, at the conclusion of the testimony on behalf of the State, gave a peremptory instruction to the jury to find for the defendant.

"Fayette Hewitt was the first witness called on behalf of the State. It is best to let him tell his own story. • • • Mr.
Hewitt, in speaking of the annual settlement made with Tate, said: That he made a settlement in 1881 with Tate;
that, at that time, there was an examination of the books in the Treasurer's and Auditor's offices, and a comparison of them. There was also a counting of the checks and money on hand and in vault;
and a comparison of the statements of the banks, as to what was on deposit, and a deduction of the outstanding checks from the balance thus obtained. 'This,' said Mr. Hewitt, 'was entered on the Treasurer's journal. The certificate is in my handwriting. The statement in the body of the settlement is all in Tate's handwriting, and was the statement made by Tate before the certificate was entered.
This was dated and signed January 2nd, 1882, by the Auditor. Just for a moment bear in mind that Mr. Hewitt says this settlement was made by a 'comparison of outstanding checks,' etc., and then read his testimony further along as to how impossible it is for him to know what checks are outstanding. The fact is that in this, as in everything else, he took Tate's word as law and gospel.

"Then Mr. Hewitt was asked the question: 'On what was the action giving those credits based?' and he answered:
'It was based upon an actual count of the checks and cash on hand and the certificates given by the various banks as to the amount on deposit, which was verified by bank books.' So far so good, but Hewitt very evidently forgot that he was to undergo a cross examination by Judge William Lindsay. And so he went on to say very frankly that the books of his office would show the amount of money paid in to the treasury between December 31, 1881, and December 31, 1882. You can italicize that statement, or you can let it alone, but it is of sufficient importance to put it in the biggest Roman gothic in the office, and also the following statement of Mr. Hewitt, that the books of the Auditor would show the amounts of the receipts and expenditures of Treasurer Tate for the period between January 1, 1882, and January 1, 1884. Now then, and according to the testimony of Mr. Hewitt, the settlements made with Tate, and which was in Tate's handwriting, showed a balance due the State of $421,687.96.

"Was that report correct?" asked Judge Lindsay, and Mr. Hewitt was obliged to answer "no!"

"Then the question was asked how came it to be incorrect? Then Mr.
Hewitt, Auditor of State, made answer
in these words:

"It was an oversight on the part of the Secretary of State and myself. Mr. Tate was given the benefit of the deposits up to the 7th of January while the statement was on the basis of a settlement as of December thirty-first. He should have been charged with the receipts during that time of forty-four thousand five hundred and ninety-four sixty-eight one-hundredths ($44,594.68) dollars, but by some inadvertence he was not. It is not excusable of course.

"That is in plain English. Mr. Hewitt admits that while his books show every cent the Treasurer received and every cent he paid out, there was "an inadver-tence" by which Tate was given the benefit of $44,594.68 on the 7th of January 1884, to make up a deficiency in his annual settlement on December 31, 1883, seven days before. Could there possibly be a plainer statement by Mr. Hewitt that, in his opinion, the State of Kentucky is populated by idiots? A settlement is made apparently on December 31, and he allows Mr. Tate the benefit of deposits up to January 7th in the next year, and does not charge him with his expeditions for the same time. Of course, as Mr. Hewitt says it is inexcusable. But it is worse.

"Now, in conclusion for to-day let us see what Mr. Hewitt further says, speaking of that settlement: 'I did not have my books before me at the time. They were in my office across the hall, and if they had been compared would have shown a difference of $44,594.68, which added to the statement would have shown the true condition on the 8th.'

"But it didn't suit Mr. Hewitt to compare the books too closely."

were appointed to solicit subscriptions to the stock of the much-talked-of manufacturing association. If you are interested at all in the move you should make it your business to be on hand.

HENRY ANDERSON, the barber, was before Mayor Pearce yesterday on charge of grand larceny and was held over on bond of $250, to await the action of next grand jury. He gave bail and was released. Anderson found a valuable gold stud, with diamond settings, recently lost by Mr. Forman Roser. He wanted
$7 for finding the article, which Mr.
Roser considered too high and would not pay. The accused then refused to deliver the stud to an officer who was sent for it, and the warrant followed, with the result as above mentioned.

ROSENAU BROTHERS,

SUTTON ST., TWO DOORS FROM SECOND.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Notes and Comments by Superintendent Galbraith for 1888-89.

There are 35 pupils on roll, with an average attendance of 24.

The trustees are Isaac Disher, Joseph Hinson and J. W. Woodward. Mr. Woodward and Mr. Hinson have visited the school, and six of the patrons have demonstrated their interest by their presence.

The school house is to be replaced by a new one next summer. This will add new interest.

The school is taught by Mrs. — Pinckard, a very faithful and efficient teacher. She uses the written methods and has the happy faculty of getting her pupils interested.

One of her exercises that deserves special mention is history reading. This is made rather a literary drill than a study; and teacher and pupils spend near a half hour reading and talking over what they have read. This develops a taste for historic studies, worth far more valuable to the pupil than mere answer to questions. Mrs. Pinckard writes: "My school is obedient, well-ordered and studious. I rarely have an imperfect recitation of any kind. Still, a portion of the children were slow in getting started to work. They seemed to think that I could teach them without any effort on their part, and owing to that I think I can accomplish more during the latter half of my term. The patrons all express themselves as well satisfied with my work."

NO. 25—BEASLEY.

There are 12 pupils on roll, with an average attendance of 6.

The trustees are W. L. Holton, John G. Bacon and Wall Snoot. Neither the trustees or patrons have visited the school.

The house is very pleasantly situated, comfortable and well furnished. Miss Mollie Bacon, who has charge of this school district for a number of years. She is well qualified for the work of the school room, and in teaching she is careful and systematic. In all of the exercises she is orderly and requires order at the hands of her pupils. Nor can we well lay too much stress on the value of practical training in politeness. Miss Bacon seems to act on the principle that the formation of character is of far more importance to the pupils than the text books, and in this I doubt not she is right. Her classes acquitted themselves well.
